Verizon Grant Benefits Children

Aleksander Krupka, 3, of Bath, Pennsylvania, is one of the many children in Good Shepherd's Pediatrics Program who benefit from an $8,000 grant from Verizon Foundation, the philanthropic arm of Verizon Communications. The grant supports Good Shepherd's Early Literacy Technology Interventions (ELTI) program. Using assistive technology, such as computers and recorded books, ELTI is a reading readiness and comprehension program for children with learning disabilities. Every year about 450 children ages 4 to 10 with such diagnoses as Down syndrome, early autism, brain injury and cerebral palsy, participate in the program. Pictured, with help from Maggie Beckerman, speech language pathologist, Aleksander demonstrates a favorite computer program for Daniel J. Reavey, director, external affairs, Verizon Pennsylvania. "Verizon Foundation is pleased and proud to improve the quality of life for children, teens and adults in the Lehigh Valley," Reavey says. "By building bridges to technology through computers, digital cameras and the Internet, we can partner with Good Shepherd Rehabilitation Network to provide valuable technology training and enrich our communities."

The miracles that happen every day at Good Shepherd are made possible by the gifts of the generous members of our community. Their support strengthens our mission and allows us to build a strong foundation today for a brighter tomorrow.

This report covers contributions, in part, from individuals, organizations and foundations from July 1, 2005, through June 30, 2006.

Bank of America Grant Supports Work Services

Good Shepherd's Work Services Division received a $12,000 grant from Bank of America – Pennsylvania, supporting work-force development and the Placement Opportunity Program. The program helps more than 250 clients with physical and mental challenges receive evaluations, training, placement, job coaching, and ongoing support and education, and supports community partnerships with local businesses. "On behalf of all our teammates at Bank of America, we couldn't be more pleased to provide resources for such a wonderful program," says Aileen Kain, vice president, market development manager, Bank of America – Pennsylvania, following a tour of Work Services. Pictured, Annemarie Fenner, a Work Services employee, shows Aileen (far right), Deborah O'Brien, associate vice president, market development specialist (second from right), and Timothy Hayes, Work Services administrator of vocational and production services, the detail involved in assembling a kit for distribution.

Going the Extra Mile

When Lise Cherim was born on August 8, 1962, Stan (pictured) and Solveig Cherim of Wallingford, Pennsylvania, were blessed with a beautiful baby girl with golden hair and blue eyes. Lise also was born with cerebral palsy. Although physically challenged, Lise grew into a spirited young woman. At age 25, Lise moved out of her home in search of greater independence. She found it at the Good Shepherd Home at the Conrad W. Raker Center, where she happily lived for 13 years until passing away at 38. Stan and Solveig have remained dear friends of Good Shepherd and longtime donors. But in May 2006, Stan literally went the extra mile when he ran in the Great Wall of China Marathon and raised more than $2,200 for Good Shepherd, all in Lise's memory. "Raising money for Good Shepherd in memory of my daughter Lise was one of the most thrilling and rewarding events I have ever experienced," Stan says. "Lise loved living at Good Shepherd, and Solveig and I are eternally grateful for the loving care she received."

Investing in the Future Is a Success

Good Shepherd's recently completed Investing in the Future Capital Campaign raised more than $51 million for numerous projects. Thanks to support from 16,424 donors, Work Services' recycling and job training programs were expanded, high-technology apartments were built for people with disabilities to live more independently, and seed funding was provided for numerous endowments including Good Shepherd's first endowed chair for pediatrics. The south Allentown campus has been transformed with the innovative Good Shepherd Health & Technology Center, housing the Harry C. Trexler Center for Assistive Technology, the RJ Foundation Mobility Center and the KNBT Pediatric Assistive Technology Lab. The center is set amid the tranquil beauty of the Earl and Shirley Mutter Healing Gardens with a variety of beautiful plantings, gardens and wheelchair-accessible pathways surrounding the Jack Izer Amphitheater. Pictured, Lee Butz, campaign co-chair, announces the results of the campaign as donors Edward Donley and David Jandl, along with Sally Gammon, president and CEO of Good Shepherd, look on.

Campaign Touches Associates' Hearts

The transformation of Good Shepherd's south Allentown campus is the result of visionary leadership not unlike that of Good Shepherd's founders, the Rev. John H. and D. Estella Raker. Their son, the Rev. Dr. Conrad Raker, carried on his parents' mission of caring for those with disabilities with great nobility and compassion until passing away in 2002. Dr. Raker was beloved by all who knew and worked with him at Good Shepherd. It was Good Shepherd's employees who raised $37,226 in the associates' campaign in support of the Conrad W. Raker Memorial Sculpture in the healing gardens. The bronze, larger-than-life sculpture by Lehigh Valley artist Karel Mikolas (pictured) is inspired by a 1955 photo of Dr. Raker holding up a little girl, Bonnie Stallman. Bonnie is a Good Shepherd long-term care resident to this day.

Trexler Trust Honored with Raker Memorial Award

Sharing Good Shepherd's vision of developing and bringing more innovative technologies to people with disabilities, the board of trustees of the Harry C. Trexler Trust awarded a $625,000 grant supporting the construction of the Good Shepherd Health & Technology Center. The Trust also awarded a $150,000 grant to the RePlace Super Thrift Store for needed structural improvements at its 26th Street site. RePlace, a community resource for recycled goods, also provides employment and job training for people with mental health challenges. In recognition of the Trexler Trust's philanthropic partnership, Good Shepherd honored its members with the 2006 Conrad W. Raker Memorial Award. Pictured, from left, are Blake Marles, Esq., chairman, Good Shepherd board of trustees, Trust member Dexter F. Baker, Sally Gammon, president and CEO, Good Shepherd, and Trust members Kathryn Stephanoff and Robert C. Wood. Not pictured are fellow Trexler Trust honorees the Rev. Daniel G. Gambet and Malcolm J. Gross.

Honor Roll of Donors

Led by Their Hearts

The men and women of Good Shepherd's Work Services Division do not take transportation for granted. Many clients with physical and mental challenges go to great lengths to make it to work every day, and they do it with determination and pride. When John and Mary Lee, longtime friends of Good Shepherd, found out about the need to transport case managers, job tutors and Work Services clients to and from employment sites in the community, they made a generous gift providing for the purchase of two seven-passenger vans. "This helped solve a real problem for us," says Timothy Hayes, administrator of vocational and production services at Work Services. "Now, people who otherwise might not be able to work have the opportunity for gainful employment and greater independence." The Lees are just quietly grateful they can share their blessings. "The idea of charity is to fill a need that nobody else fills," says Mary. "Everybody is a steward of God's goods. If you have something extra to give, you just do it." Pictured, Mary Buckley, a Work Services client, and Nancy Gordon, case manager, show off the new van.

Planned Giving

Planned giving is an important cornerstone of Good Shepherd's mission to meet the physical and cognitive rehabilitation needs of our communities. We are deeply grateful to those who include Good Shepherd in their estate planning. Their foresight has played an integral role in carrying forward the mission of the Rev. John H. and D. Estella Raker.

In keeping with the tradition and culture of Good Shepherd, the 1908 Raker Society recognizes donors past and present who support the charitable mission of Good Shepherd through estate planning. The 1908 Raker Society welcomes new members starting at the $1,000 level who have remembered Good Shepherd in their will or have created a life income gift or insurance gift.
